About : The Conference

In celebration of International Women's Day, this conference provides a platform to discuss the rights, care, and dignity of elderly women. It brings together scholars, researchers, practitioners, and students to examine legal, social, and policy frameworks, highlight challenges faced by elderly women, and explore solutions that promote justice, empowerment, and well-being. Through interdisciplinary dialogue, the conference aims to contribute to policy reforms and social awareness in line with the principles of gender equality and women's rights.

Theme of the Conference

Elderly Women and Law: Rights, Care and Dignity

Ageing is a gendered experience, and elderly women often face compounded disadvantages arising from social norms, economic dependency, health vulnerabilities, and unequal access to legal protections. Despite constitutional guarantees and evolving legal frameworks, many elderly women continue to experience neglect, abuse, insecurity, and exclusion from decision-making processes. The theme “Elderly Women and Law: Rights, Care and Dignity” seeks to critically examine the legal, social, and policy dimensions affecting elderly women, with a focus on ensuring substantive rights, adequate care, and dignified living in later life. It invites interdisciplinary engagement to explore gaps in existing laws, challenges in implementation, and pathways for strengthening legal and institutional responses to safeguard the dignity and well-being of elderly women.

We are glad to invite Academicians, Policy Makers & Regulators, Research scholars, Students and Social Scientists for a one-day interdisciplinary E-Conference on “Elderly Women and Law: Rights, Care and Dignity”
