kartavyam

The opening invocation of our Constitution, "We, the People of India," serves as a clarion call to our shared responsibilities in sculpting the destiny of our republic. As India strides into its 78th year of independence, there exists an inexorable necessity to rekindle the ethos of constitutional duty- not as an imposed obligation, but as the cornerstone of our collective ambition to reimagine constitutional interpretation and jurisprudence.

With this exercise, we seek to reimagine and catalyse new dimensions of constitutional interpretation, dissecting the intricate interplay of duties and rights. It is an endeavor to move beyond textual exegesis and breathe fresh vitality into constitutionalism- one that is not merely aspirational but actively transformative in shaping the jurisprudence of the future.

The series will feature lectures in collaboration with Central and State Universities, as well as National Law Universities and the series will commence from April 2025 and will culminate on 26th January 2026.

GUEST LIST

The कर्तव्यम् lecture series is an intellectual odyssey that brings together the finest legal minds of our time. This distinguished forum will feature courtroom legends and eminent jurists, encompassing the vast spectrum of India's legal fraternity- from serving and former Justices who have shaped constitutional jurisprudence to doyens of the Bar whose advocacy has left an indelible mark on the nation's legal landscape.

With each session, we aspire to delve into the evolving contours of constitutional interpretation, examining the delicate interplay between rights and duties, judicial dynamism, and the ever expanding frontiers of justice. This series is not merely a celebration of the Constitution's legacy but a platform to envision its future through the wisdom of those who have defended, interpreted, and enriched its spirit.
